CHAIRMEN McNeill and Moore go over plans to beautify faculty parking area with advisor Hundley, center.

The School Beautiful committee sponsored one special project and helped Grimsley compete in several citywide contests. The main project of the year began in late January. The plan was to clean up and beautify the teachers' parking lot behind the cafeteria building and the wooded area behind the lot, down to Benjamin Parkway.

Besides the major projects, the School Beautiful committee headed the service clubs in their work with various plots around the campus. They held several Saturday workdays to clean up the campus and co-ordinate the parking lot sweeps on Sunday afternoons. With the help of advisor Miss Lynne Hundley and the participation of many Grimsley students, the School Beautiful committee added more beauty than ever to the GHS campus.

GHS Pep Board uses posters, slogans, and skits

Grimsley's Pep Board once again lifted Whirlie spirit by means of committee work. The poster committee heightened student vivacity by hanging a myriad of colorful posters throughout the halls. Posters contained such slogans as "Sink the Pirates," "Walk the Plank," and "First-um Day." Several other committees specialized in painting cars, decorating the stadium, and producing skits.

Grimsley's Pep Board intensified GHS "pep" in numerous other ways. Whirlie fans displayed outlandish hats, big boots, and blue and white socks during Spirit Week before the Page game. Continued was the weekly presentation of the "Whirlie-Booster-of-the-Week" award which was given regularly to some deserving Grimsley student.

YRC members spent more time building their Christmas float than on any other project. Students were invited to help construct the display, which was entered in the Holiday Jubilee Parade. They devoted weekends to swift and concentrated work so that the float was completed by November 25. Delighting many Greensboro youths, the final product was YRC's version of Mrs. Claus' Candy Kitchen.

The Youth Recreation Council organized other social functions at GHS, including open houses, "Twirp," and Homecoming activities. The new Whirlibird bulletin board held notices concerning a benefit dance and Derby Day.

Student Council coordinates activities and hosts

OPTIMISTS pay a student council committee chairman for tickets to Midwinters, which was customarily postponed until late winter.

A notable project of the GHS Student Council was the sponsorship of the 1968 Central District Convention of the Student Council Organization. Committees were responsible for planning such things as a devotion and a welcoming address. When all plans were completed, 400 student council members converged on Grimsley for the spring meeting.

In addition to this big event, Grimsley's Student Council was successful in coordinating student body activities such as Co-Rec night for transfer students, Homecoming presentations, the long-awaited Midwinters dance, and May Day. At the close of the school year, Junior Council members organized the Prom to honor Grimsley Seniors who would soon graduate. Good leadership by the officers and advisor, Mrs. Moody, and careful planning allowed Student Council to be one of Grimsley's most vital organizations.

Student volunteer groups are indispensable aides

Volunteers helped manage the daily business of running GHS. Dean's office assistants checked on absentees and summoned students for Dean Stanton. In Mr. Routh's office students helped Mrs. Coltrane, Mrs. Jones, and Miss Moore with numerous clerical duties, errands, and greeting visitors. Guidance center aides answered phones and aided by filing and making appointments. School store helpers provided supplies for students, while book room boys checked thousands of books in or out in September and in May. The stage crew prepared the stage for assemblies, concerts, plays, and other productions at Grimsley.

Every Wednesday morning, the thirty-six members of Grimsley's Library Council met to discuss their problems. These meetings included discussions of ways that the student librarians could better serve the people. The members also selected one of their peers to run for an office at the annual convention of the North Carolina High School Library Association, of which Grimsley is a member. Carolyn Lyday went to the convention in Charlotte and was elected State Vice President.

The GHS Library Council kept in mind their "watchwords," better known as the Three A's: Accuracy, Ability, and Attitude. They also practiced the skills of all librarians. Throughout the year, the members of the Library Council, under the direction of Head Librarian Miss Herring, worked to better serve their school and fellow students.

Bus drivers transport students to ten schools

"Mr. Glenn is the best friend I've had at Grimsley." He's one of the finest people I know." "Anytime we have troubles, Mr. Glenn is the person most of us go to." Grimsley students who drive buses for 10 schools in the city school system compose just another group of Whirlies who express their devotion to Mr. Lody Glenn, who advises the bus drivers.

These students transported 858 pupils to and from school each day during the school year. They gave up sleeping even as late as most students and sacrificed seventh period study halls to drive 28 buses 33,240 miles every month. Each morning the bus drivers gathered in homeroom to work on time sheets and reports, an inconspicuous but vital part of their jobs.

OFFICERS are Robertson, President Hall, Advisor Mr. Glenn, and McDonald.

Published '68 Whirligig

In spring 1967 the Whirligig room buzzed as preparations for the 1968 volume began and the book was planned, page by page. Then on rainy August days staff members were exposed to the business world as they went out to sell ads. In the fall class pictures were taken, then mounted for the engraver. Later, photographers and students shivered through chilling "group picture" days. With the first yearbook sale in October and the announcement of the 1967 Whirligig's All-American — Grimsley's eighteenth straight — curious students began to plague the staff for "inside information" about the 1968 Whirligig.

Imminent deadlines cast long shadows. Tensions mounted. But sections did get completed and were carried off by Mr. Fleming. By the time the last pages were taken away, proof sheets of the earlier ones began to arrive. As staff members searched for mistakes to correct, they admired pages they had worked on. Finally May arrived, Whirligigs were delivered, and everyone was satisfied with the secrets now revealed and the other results of long hours of thought and effort.

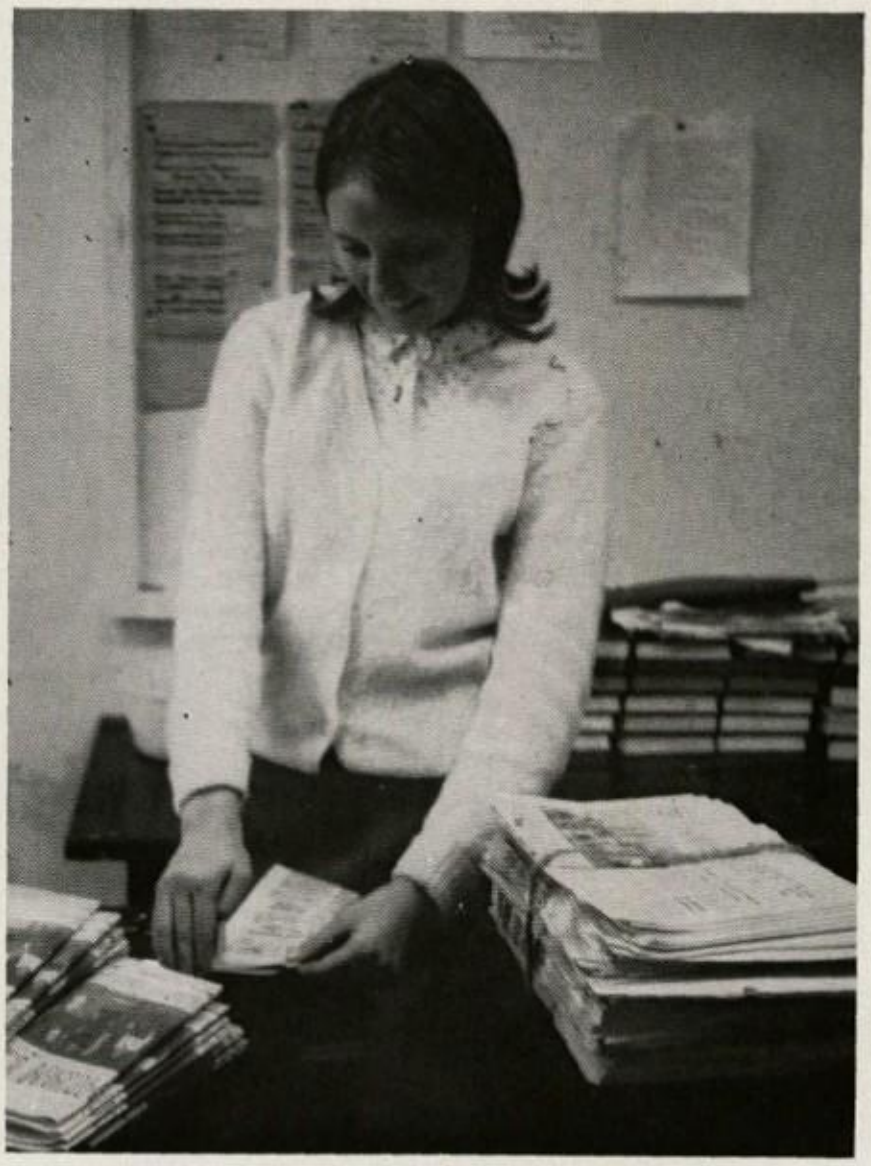
state, satisfies 1300 Grimsley subscribers

COPIES of High Life are prepared by Exchange Editor Steinsberger to send to other high school staffs.



Grimsley students seldom realize the hectic work that goes into each issue of High Life. On Monday of each week, copy is delivered to the printer who makes a reproduction of the original work. Cartoons and pictures are prepared for the engraver on Tuesday. On Wednesday the paper is not yet completed. At this point the copy reader extricates flaws from the printer's transcript, while editors arrange and paste the printed layouts on their pages.

Any flaws are corrected, and the paper is returned to the printer, who has High Life ready for Grimsley readers on Monday. Over 1300 GHS subscribers agree that the labor invested in a single issue of High Life, the only weekly high school newspaper in the state, is truly worth the effort.

student opportunities and business experience

The Cooperative Office Occupation program taught interested students about the business world. The program offered many new and exciting jobs for the young people who were students in the mornings and office workers in the afternoons. Through these opportunities, students practiced their business skills and enlarged their experiences. To diversify their learning, the group took interesting field trips to various business firms. As a major project, COO members adopted a needy family during the Christmas season. Near the end of the school year, COO students showed their thanks by hosting a banquet for their employers.

There are many rewards that come from the Cooperative Office Occupation program including credits and money, but the big reward is having a head-start toward a future with the aid of increasing maturity and experience.

The first day on a job is important to students in Grimsley's Distributive Education class, who are graded by their employers as well as by their instructor, Mrs. Hadden. Besides learning the consumer's side of marketing from their classes, DE students receive that of a businessman from their jobs.

DE students took many field trips and had various speakers. At District VI Convention in October, Ronnie Merrell was elected president and Hayden Hartmann, vice president. Later that month Grimsley hosted the district workshop for officers. Then in February at the District Contest, Grimsley students placed high in speech, sales demonstration, advertising layouts, and DE boy and girl of the year.

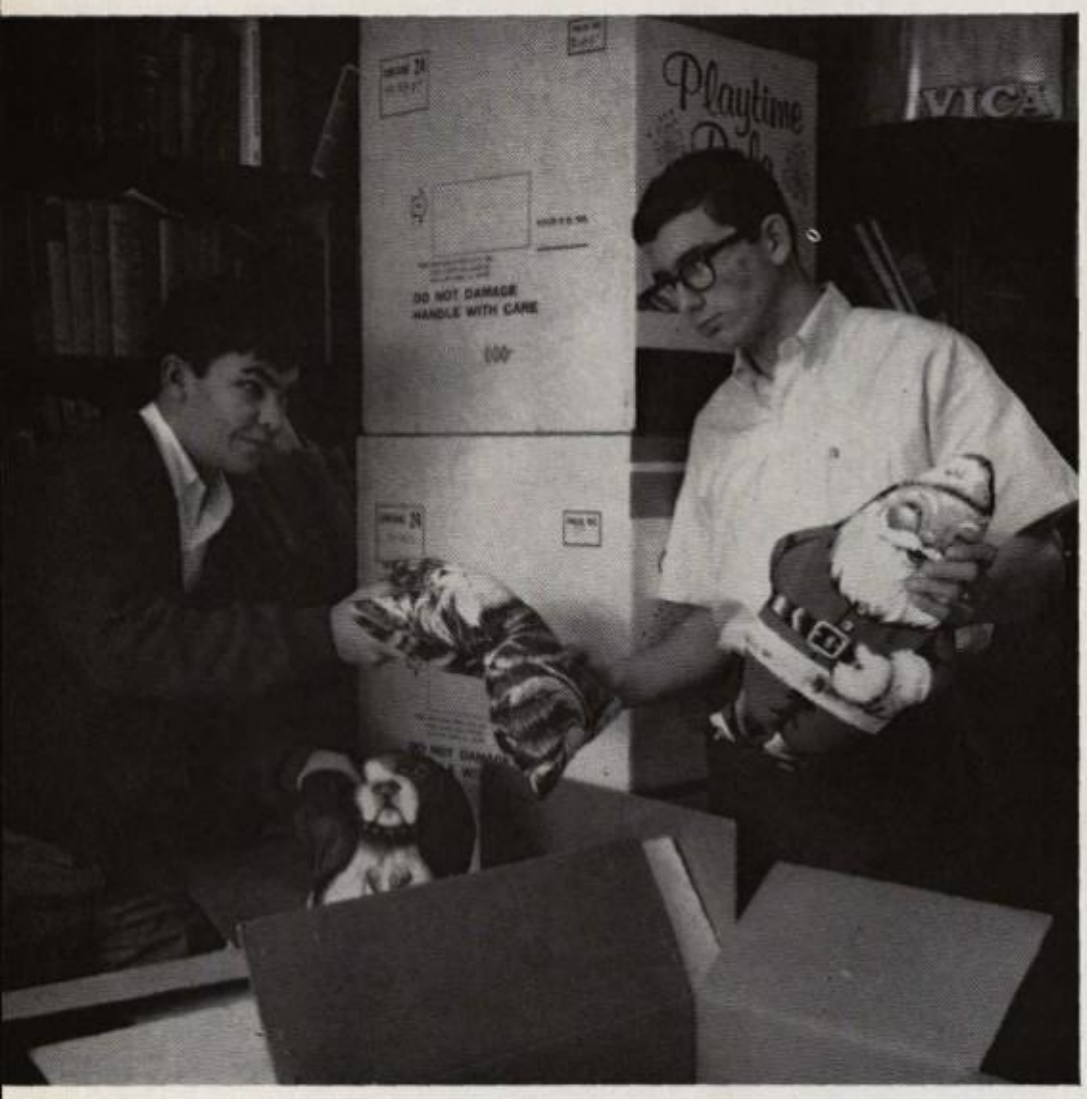
VICA Club members show salesmanship ability



HIGH SALESMEN during VICA project—selling tops at Christmas—are Myatt and Causey.

Grimsley students became familiar with the initials of the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America, or VICA, during Christmas when the Grimsley chapter sold toys to raise money for their club. The students in the Industrial Co-operative Training Program at GHS comprise the membership of the local club, and they worked hard to sell their stuffed animals, dolls, and games to raise money for their club. Some of the money was used to buy a banner, gavel, emblem, and handbooks for the local chapter.

VICA is an integral part of all trade and industrial courses, including ICT. Its major aim, says advisor Trost, is to develop better leadership and citizenship by stressing school spirit, patriotism, and civic and social consciousness.

The lights are dim. The white-robed candle-bearers glide through the darkened auditorium to soft strains of "Ave Maria." Chairs squeak and feet scrape as one Torchlight member moves through a row to tap a classmate into the Grimsley chapter of the National Honor Society. There are a few tears and many smiles, as twenty seniors are tapped in the fall and more seniors and several juniors are tapped in the spring.

New members are expected to fulfill the duties of all Honor Society members. They have to maintain a 3.4 average and support Torchlight projects, which include the annual Talent Show and the tutoring service for GHS students.

addiction to the far East

At the meetings of the History Honor Society, different programs made the study of history more interesting for everyone who participated. Mrs. Eugene Pfaff, an ex-GHS teacher, spoke at one of the meetings about her recent stay in Egypt. Her husband had been stationed at the U.S. Embassy there until only a few days before the outbreak of the troubles in the Middle East last summer. She spoke about the way of life in Egypt and showed several brightly colored robes worn by both the men and women in the country.

Other programs were a movie on dope and drug addiction and a report from two students who had spent the summer in France. Club dues paid for a subscription to the New York Times for the GHS library.

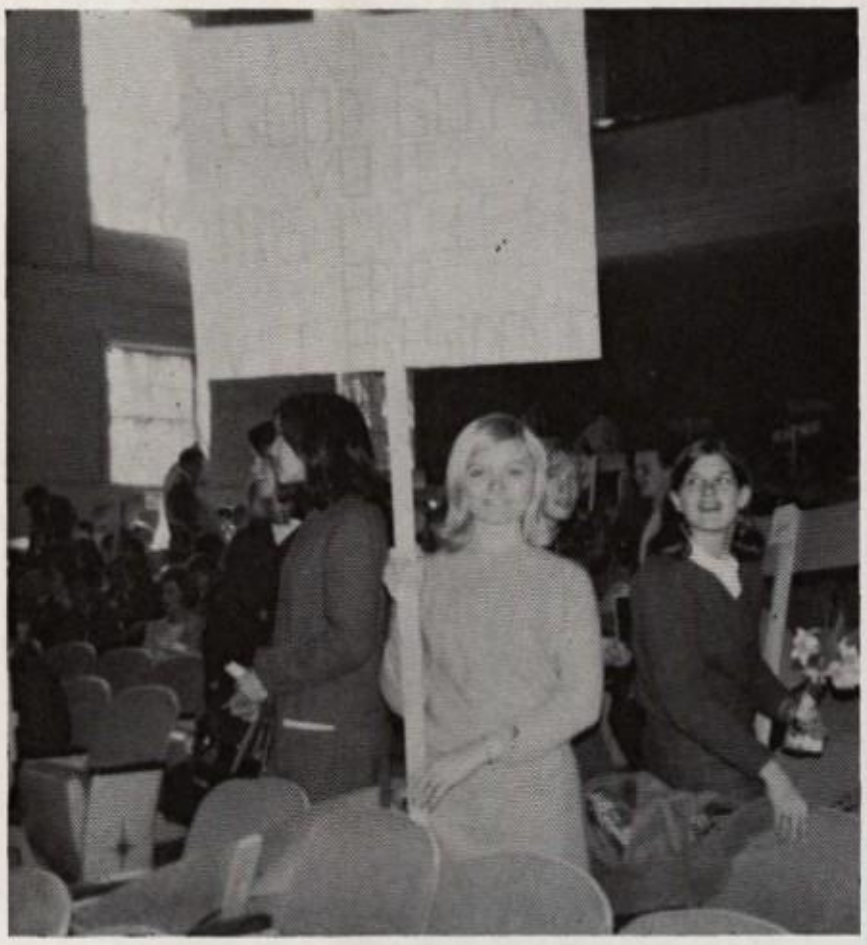
Kellett and Jones publish state newspaper TORCH



PUBLICITY and JCL support win a state office for Trish Kellett.

Grimsley members of Junior Classical League went to the state JCL convention in Chapel Hill on Saturday, March 3, 1967. There they heard campaign speeches and attended workshops, led by groups from various high schools and consisting of discussions about Roman customs and history.

The convention ended with election of state officers, including Trish Kellett, who was elected state vice-chairman. She thus became editor of Torch, state JCL newspaper. She chose Bob Jones as managing editor, and together they published the 1968 edition of Torch for this year's convention.

Other highlights of the year included the fall induction ceremony and an interesting meeting at which Steve Dixon presented his original play based on Virgil's Aeneid.

SHS practices ancient Spanish Christmas customs

FORMAL induction of new members includes lighted candles, signing the club's book, and a certificate presented by President Sparks.

Members of the Spanish Honor Society looked forward to their Christmas party as a novel meeting. They made plans for in advance; then, at the party each member was blindfolded and given a chance to try to break open the candy-filled pinata hanging from the ceiling.

Regular meetings of the organization consisted of programs about Spanish-speaking countries. Myra Contin, foreign student from the Dominican Republic, spoke at one. In early February members sold potato chips to raise money, part of which went into a $25 bond for a superior Spanish student.

FOLLOWING the induction ceremony, punch is served to new members.

FHA sends "goodies" to soldiers in Vietnam

Once again Grimsley's Future Homemakers of America organized a bake sale to raise funds for various projects. The members used their homemaking talents to bake delicious cakes and cookies for sale at the Lawndale Shopping Center in April. A profit of over forty dollars was used to send packages filled with "goodies" to the soldiers in Vietnam. As a result of this worthy project, several of the girls acquired penpals among these American fighting men.

Other activities included educational field trips—speakers from Leon's School of Beauty and from Duke Power Company helped prepare the members for personal and home management. In addition they decorated bulletin boards in the Home Economics building and planned a housewarming party. Advised by Miss Elizabeth Phillips, FHA members spent the year learning new skills and understanding in the art of homemaking.

VARIED ACTIVITIES of FHA include a program on wigs at a dinner meeting and (bottom) an elaborate Homecoming display.

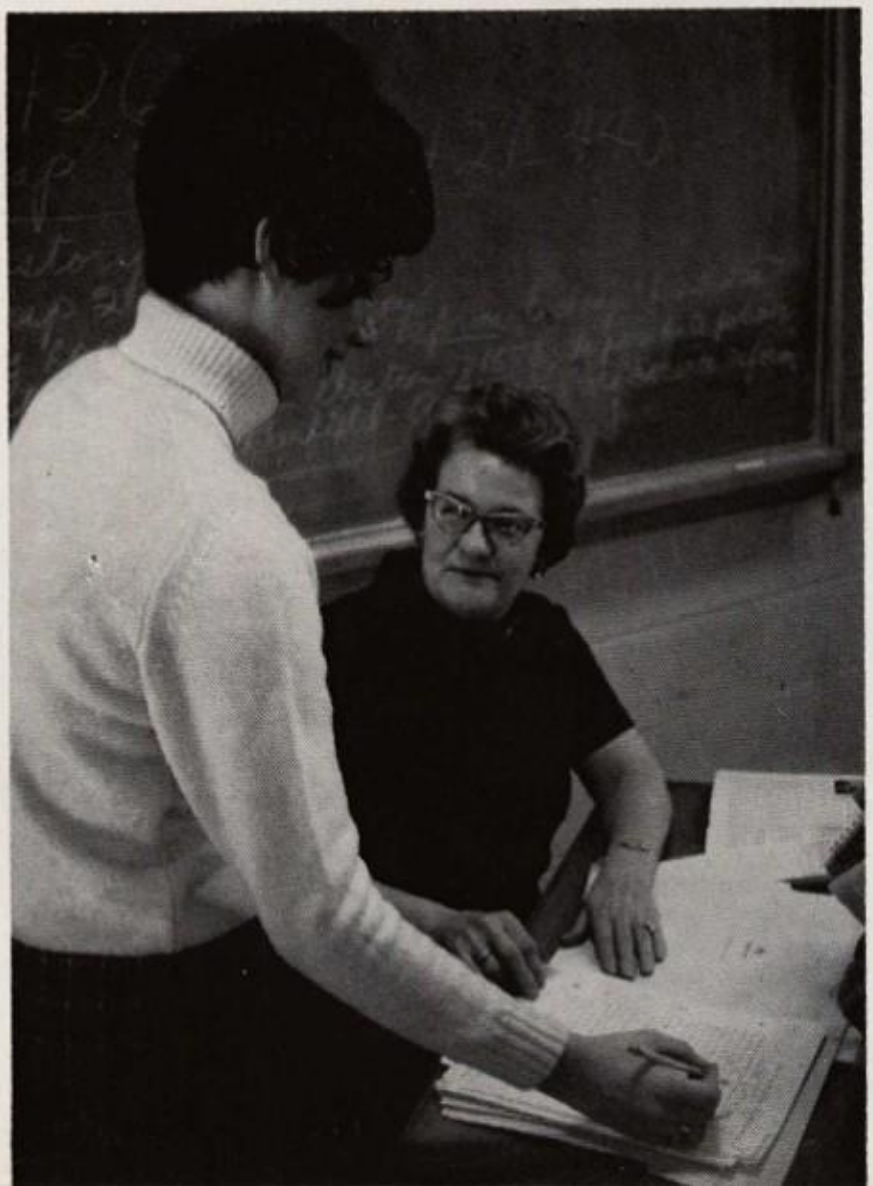
FTA members practice valuable teaching methods

SERVICES by FTA members include helping teachers check papers.



For National Education Week the Future Teachers of America conducted an assembly program, with Dr. Amos Abrams as an entertaining speaker. Grimsley's FTA also sponsored speeches given by GHS students over the PA every day that week.

FTA members continued to aid teachers in tasks such as filing and grading papers, to learn some of the routines of teaching. Several girls were invited to Brooks to entertain first graders while weary teachers took a break. They also participated in the annual convention at Raleigh, where Bonnie Boyles conducted a vigorous campaign for state secretary. In February they marshalled for a citywide NCEA meeting and heard Dr. George Schweitzer of the University of Tennessee. They also held an Easter egg hunt for underprivileged children at Smith Homes. Other events of the year included the Spring tea, the May banquet where new officers were elected, and the counting of caps and gowns in May.

Playmasters prepare three one-act productions

APPLYING make-up for appearance in class play are Slack, Hollingsworth, and Smith.

After many hours of practice, the Playmasters entered three one-act plays into the district competition at Catawba, with the winners scheduled to continue on to the State Dramatic Festival at UNC-CH. Grimsley's three productions were "Sunday Costs Five Pesos," a one-act play by Paul Green, and a portion of Anastasia.

Approximately sixty members made up the '67-'68 Playmasters. These aspiring actors gathered at meetings to listen to speakers from the dramatics departments of nearby colleges. Other programs were skits, make-up demonstrations, and the presentation of one-act plays. The senior members were involved in the Christmas Pageant and the district competition, and junior members participated in the Class production, You Can't Take It With You.

OFFICERS of Faculty Club are Mrs. Jane Hauser, President Mrs. Daphne Stanton, and Mr. Jay Arena.

The nearly one hundred teachers and administrators are sometimes a club whose officers coordinate several services. To ill or bereaved members go flowers and comforting notes. If one retires or is married, the club treasury provides an appropriate gift, sometimes even a party. Each fall at an informal get-together for new teachers, Mr. Routh and Mr. Glenn don aprons and fry an abundant supply of hamburgers. This year Mr. Routh, Mr. Glenn, Mrs. Coltrane, and Mrs. Jones were hosts to the teachers at a festive Christmas tea.

Every May the Faculty Club honors seniors and other guests at a formal reception in the UNC-G Alumnae House. It is after students have gone that the club meets finally for lunch in the home economics building.

Choruses learn and apply fundamentals of music

A new idea initiated by Mr. Ronald Hill, director of the Boys and Girls Glee Club and the Advanced Girls Chorus, was the use of calisthenics in class. Each day the students in these singing groups practiced such exercises as jumping jacks and touching their toes. As Mr. Hill explained, "The body needs to be in excellent condition for singing, and exercises help to make it so." The three choruses also worked on music theory, which included the elements of harmony and music. Near the end of the year, members of the three groups were required to compose original pieces.

The two beginning glee clubs worked on the basic fundamentals of music throughout the year. The Advanced Girls Chorus put their knowledge of harmony into practice for the Torchlight tappings, where they sang "Ave Maria," and for their performance at the State Festival.

Choir, with its special groups, shows versatility

The Grimsley Choir set an outstanding record last fall by performing for eight events in six days. The seventy-six members gave concerts for organizations such as the First Presbyterian Women's Club and the Greensboro Civitans luncheon.

Other activities of the Choir included singing at the State Contest, for criticism by three judges. This group also participated in the State Choral Festival at Aycock Auditorium in January.

The Madrigal Singers, a select group of more talented choir members, sang at the State Educators' Conference in November and were invited to perform in Chapel Hill at the University in February. The Madrigals joined the other Choir members on their trip to Nassau at the end of school to perform at the Government School there.

Singing Strings, an orchestra group, played for community activities, the statewide PTA Council meeting, luncheon for new teachers, a banquet for Superintendents and Supervisors, JCL initiation, and Cerebral Palsy Christmas Party.

The GHS Orchestra also participated in the October performance at First Lutheran Church for the 450th Anniversary of the Reformation; a first performance of an oratorio by Latrobe for the Euterpe Club in March; an outdoor concert in May; host to ALL-State Orchestra in January. Plans are being made for a trip to San Antonio in July for those chosen to play in the National School Orchestra.

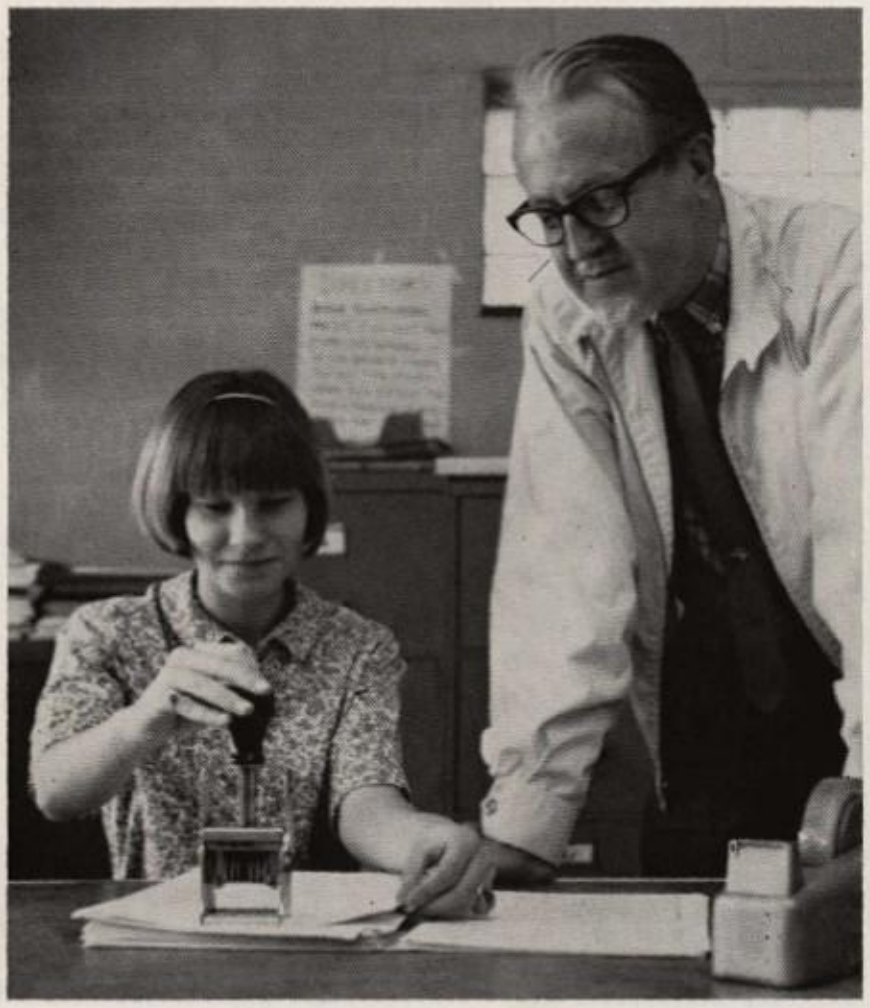
A BAND librarian aids busy Mr. Hazelman by stamping copies of scores.



In October each member of the symphony band was assigned a solo along with several scales and arpegios to learn for the All-State Band tryouts. Nervous and excited, the candidates traveled to High Point on December 9 to audition. After all that work, the audition took only minutes. But thirty-three Grimsley students were selected for the All-State Band.

The band also performed in the fall at a music clinic, which involved seven bands from all over the state. The band presented five concerts, one of which was a joint presentation with a Canadian band from St. Catherine's, Ontario.

Another recital group, Euterpe-Symphonia, is sponsored by the Senior Euterpe Club of Greensboro and is composed of talented musicians specializing in piano, voice, clarinet and string. Grimsley had 21 members this year, nominated by teachers and selected by the advisors of the club.

As service to Grimsley, Civinettes furnish clinic

Each junior and senior member of the Civinettes was responsible for selling seventy pounds of fruitcake and the sophomores sixty pounds. Many of the girls were able to get orders from large businesses; others had to depend on a witty sales pitch or even wistful pleas. The girls sold over 3100 fruitcakes, and with the profits they decorated the new clinic and donated a refrigerator to the new teacher's lounge.

Several Civinette members attended the April, 1967, District East Convention held with the Civitans, at which their president, Carol Carruthers, was elected secretary.

Other Civinette projects were washing blackboards and polishing the school's trophies. They attended church once a month with Junior Civitan Club and held several meetings with their brother organization.

PROFIT from selling over 3000 fruitcakes makes high salesman White, sales chairman Bass and advisor Coltrane happy.

Strange is president of Civitan eastern district

Being a sophomore presents many problems, but new students had the help of student handbooks provided by the Civitan Club. Club members solicited ads, compiled important data, and had their helpful booklets ready for distribution at a sophomore assembly early in the year. The student handbook included explanations of all the organized functions at Grimsley.

The Junior Civitans participated in fund drives, worked on their School Beautiful project, and sponsored a foster child in Hong Kong. During October they sold Halloween candy as their fund-raising project.

Shapely Charioteers model stylish spring attire

Ushering in the spring with their annual fashion show, the Charioteers worked diligently on their fund-raising project. Early in January, committees were formed to make plans for the April affair. Ten shapely girls were chosen to model the fashionable clothes provided by Laurie's. When tickets went on sale, the response was overwhelming.

Sponsored by the Charity League, the Charioteers were honored by a luncheon in the fall, where they each received a yellow chrysanthemum. They planned a "reconstruction" for their grove plot and boosted school spirit during the football season by placing blue-and-white streamers on all the cars in the parking lot for home games.

BLUE AND WHITE streamers tied on cars by Charioteers advertise all home games.

Interact Club sponsors French student Bessero

On the first day of the month, the Interact Club members provided each homeroom with a school events calendar for each student. Starring a "coed of the month," the hand-lettered calendars were financed by local firms. Various events on the calendars were sports events, open houses, assemblies, and other "happenings" in the world of Greensboro and Grimsley. They made a hit with the students because they were so convenient—and free!

For their money-raising project, the boys raked leaves. They provided a home for Rotary-sponsored Gilles Bessero from Montbeliard, France. All of their projects enabled the boys to improve personal and international relationships.

COOPERATING with Rotary International, the Interact sponsors French boy Gilles Bessero (shown receiving gift)—in a project to promote international understanding.

Exchangettes win city-wide Heart Fund Drive

SENIOR members laugh now, even though they realize they have fifteen hundred key rings and only one car to use.

The Exchangettes will long remember the frosty morning of October 27 when at six o'clock, wearing jeans and rollers, they transported their prize-winning Homecoming display to school. With numb hands and damp feet, the girls put in the final stakes and nails of their giant Whirlibird and Wooden Buffalo Nickel, which portrayed "Coin the Bison." But their efforts succeeded, for they won the first-prize trophy in the Homecoming display contest for the second year.

The girls collected for four community fund drives, worked in their garden, and devoted Saturday mornings instructing underprivileged children in the Morningside Community Center. For the first time they sold "Go Whirlie" key rings to raise money. They also contributed one hundred dollars to their annual teacher's fund.

Exchange club sells spirit-boosting megaphones

When the school beautiful committee needed service club help, Exchange volunteered to take an area for landscaping. With shovels, rakes, wheelbarrows, and club members, their section between the home-economics building and the science building soon took shape. They started with a weed patch and developed it into a circular patio with concrete benches and surrounding shrubs. After this initial work the boys continued to keep the area looking good.

During football season Exchange members sold "Go Whirlies" megaphones. They also collected for fund drives. Brother club to Exchangettes, they held joint meetings and gave a party. This party was a dance given on April 6 at the Fireman's Club for almost three hundred students.

SOMETIMES short on service but always long on smiles, Exchange Club members devote a Saturday morning to improving their gravel patio.

Jaycettes' Buddy System cheers new sophomores

Initially confused with stories about the third floor of the science building, elevators in the main building, and the up and down stairways, how could any sophomore keep from getting lost without the help of the Jaycettes' buddy system? In the spring the Jaycettes asked the returning students to sign up as buddies for new students. The club members matched the names of registered sophomores with the upperclass volunteers. Then on August 30, juniors and seniors guided their buddies through Grimsley, making the first day of school a much easier one.

The Jaycettes waxed classroom desks every month and distributed confetti at two of the football games. They sold Whirlie pennants as their money-making project.

Jaycees enliven games, present weekly awards

The Junior Jaycees saw that the famed mascot of the Whirlies was present at all games. The blue-and-white Whirlibird outfit with its large-billed mask was a special feature at football and basketball events. The mascot costume rotated among several club members who took turns at wearing it. For many it was merely a free way to the game; to others it gave a chance to display their acrobatic abilities to the enthusiastic Grimsley fans.

Periodically during the year the Jaycees presented the Whirlie-of-the-Week Award to an outstanding athlete. Arranging the GHS Activity Board, taking care of the Jaycee patio, and supplying cokes for the basketball teams were other Jaycee efforts. During the spring, the boys worked at the GGO with the Senior Jaycees, their adult sponsoring club.

OHJ's take top honors in White Cane Drive

ADVISOR Mrs. Jones' office comes under the reviving influence of industrious club officers.

As faculty advisor to O. Henry Juniors, Mrs. Faye Jones, Grimsley's new assistant secretary, was on the receiving end of their service when they redecorated her office. They bought draperies and a rug and selected pictures to go in her room, which is part of the main office.

Working with a cerebral palsy program and building an award-winning Homecoming display were among their other projects. They also won the White Cane Fund Drive in the city and were chosen by the Key Club to become their sister club. OHJ's held joint meetings with their new brother club.

Each year members of the club attend the convention of North Carolina Federation of Sub-Juniors. At this past meeting O. Henry Juniors' vice president, Gail Knieriem, was elected to the position of State President.

Key Club chooses OHJ's for sister chapter

Football season was not all "fun and games" to the Key Club members, who were responsible for sweeping the stadium after all athletic events. The stadium lights shone many mornings until three o'clock while the hard-working boys continued to sweep. Many who were also football players would leave the playing field, only to help clean from the stands the traces of that night's game.

Passing out Alma Mater cards to the sophomores, throwing out miniature footballs at the Page game, and working with School Beautiful were among their other services. They also donated new framed copies of the Grimsley Honor Code for each classroom and had their annual Key Club Directory ready for distribution before the Christmas vacation. In the spring, the Key Clubers organized a faculty basketball game between Page and Grimsley.

Seniorettes donate curtains to new GHS library

As their service project for the year, Grimsley Seniorettes worked with Miss Herring to select, design, and finance the installation of curtains in the library. Translucent, greenish-white material was purchased in the fall; the draperies were made and installed in the spring. Librarians and students alike appreciated the beauty of the curtains and the protection they gave from the sun's glow through the front windows.

Although not a Friday, the thirteenth of February was a lucky day, for the girls received 2,688 large candy bars for their annual sale! The Seniorettes had also placed first in a local fund drive in December. This newest girls' club at GHS sponsored monthly programs and discussion groups to fulfill the Seniorettes' motto —"to learn the needs of others through service."

Sub-Juniors help in project at community center

Teaching arts and crafts, lessons in etiquette, and swimming lessons, the Sub-Juniors helped at the Fairfield Community Center. Every week two members, accompanied by an advisor from the sponsoring Junior Woman's Club, worked with the six to twelve year-old children. Of her experiences in working with the culturally underprivileged children one typical girl said, "It's hard to explain how I feel, but it's really rewarding."

To raise money, the Sub-Juniors initiated the project of selling Mrs. Leland's Candies. In November the girls packed thirty-five ditty bags full of goodies for servicemen in Vietnam. As a final token, the Sub-Juniors donated three silver trays to the Home Economics department. Each of their projects enabled the girls to fulfill in part the club's purpose of promoting the social and intellectual development of teenagers.

Y-Teens succeed with volleyball and a cake sale

Y-TEENS volleyball team proudly exhibit ball with which they won the interclub championship.

On a freezing Saturday, March 2, the Grimsley Y-Teens held a bake sale. Early that morning they set up tables at the Friendly Shopping Center and neatly arranged the homemade cakes, cookies, and pies. With the money collected from the successful sale, the club donated to the library two books and a beautiful record entitled Music for a Medieval Day by the New York Pro Musica. The members also gave an electric pencil sharpener to the librarians.

Under the supervision of Miss Sara Moore, the Y-Teens sent magazines to soldiers in Vietnam, built a booth at the Teenage Carnival, and worked with the Interclub Council on sweeping the parking lot. As an additional distinction, five members defeated the other girls' service clubs to capture the Interclub Volley Championship.

Hi-Y members give party to underprivileged boys

In November Philomathian Hi-Y members began their annual money-making project of selling GHS car tags. Three hundred blue-and-white "Go Whirlies" signs were ordered. Besides boosting the club's treasury, the license plates provided the buyers with a method of continuously displaying their school spirit.

Members of Hi-Y pledged a contribution of $25 to the YMCA World Service Fund, and during the Christmas holidays sponsored a party at the YMCA for underprivileged children. Dinner meetings were held once a month; during the alternate weeks business meetings were held at the "Y." Under the direction of Mr. Julius Hayworth, the Grimsley Hi-Y club aimed to fulfill their purpose of "maintaining high standards of Christian character" among the members.

Monogramers prove merit with successful sales

MEMBERS DISPLAY tee shirts and stadium cushions the club sold as a money-raising project.

In the middle of November, Monogram members began to capitalize upon their traditional project, the sale of Homecoming corsages. Monogramers sold tickets reserving mums for the buyer on the day of the Homecoming Dance which were later exchanged for corsages. Members of the Whirlie Booster Club had previously made mums into corsages which portrayed school colors.

In addition to this enhancement of Homecoming, the Monogram men encouraged support of Whirlie athletics. Charles Wilkins, a very capable president, instituted several other projects for his competent salesmen. He initiated the sale of "Whirlie G" tee shirts—coupled with a savage sales attack on students and parents to buy stadium cushions. Monogramers had a lucrative, active year.

Jim Mitchell highlights career at Shrine Bowl

Bleak November brought the end of a discouraging Whirlie football season. However, though the Whirlies only managed a meager 2-8 record, they showed flashes of brilliance. Quarterback Rick Pipan connected on twelve touchdown passes; Jimmy Mitchell, halfback, dazzled foes with his offensive fireworks; and Glenn Morris, linebacker, led a tenacious young defensive team.

Several times this year superior play by the Blue and White destined a victory, but the Big Blue couldn't create or sustain those vital breaks and a would-be triumph resulted in a heartbreaking loss.

The Whirlies opened season play with Raleigh Broughton, the number-one-rated team in the state. The towering size of the Caps dominated the entire game and the Whirlies were defeated 33-14.

Juniors dominate lineups; future hopes bright

Although the following three weeks were marred by close fourth-quarter losses to Durham, Dudley, and Reynolds, these three games saw a tough, at times top-flight Whirlie team in action.

The Whirlies returned to action at home the following week. Burlington's Bulldogs found the Whirlies playing aggressive, alert ball, and GHS showed promise in winning its first ball game of the year.

Entering the second half of the season with high hopes, the Whirlie gridiron soon experienced shock and disbelief at their own play. Crosstown rivals Page and Smith, High Point, and East Forsyth all added to the troubled Whirlies' list of woes. Sandwiched between, however, was a big Whirlie upset of Asheville, the number-five team in the state.

Thus were the Whirlies, young and inexperienced, injury-and-error-laden, but full of new talent, which promises to sparkle in the following years.

The returning of lettermen from the previous year's basketball team promised a successful season on the hardwood floor of the Grimsley gym. Robbie Wilson, soon to be a team captain, Keith Broome, Randy McMasters, a veteran replacement at guard, showed superlative potential in preseason practice. The quintet was to be completed by a host of junior regulars. Dickie Gordon and Steve Warner proved themselves under fire many times this year. Lindsay Cook, a six-foot seven giant, showed his worth as an outstanding defensive player.

Grimsley's basketball team started out making school history. The opening game at Lynchburg, Va. was the first loss the Hilltoppers had ever suffered on their home court by a GHS team. In other non-conference games the Whirlies proved they could play ball on their home court, never suffering a defeat to a non-conference foe at home. The conference story, however, proved to be tragic. The Whirlies, showing definite supremacy in some games, suffiered unavoidable bad breaks; and this coupled with individual error, led to heart-breaking last-minute losses. The Whirlies dropped a number of close conference games. They suffered 5 losses by the aggregate score difference of only 13 points.

Grapplers post undefeated regular season mark

Even before the actual competition had started, the Whirlie wrestlers knew they had more than just another big job ahead of them. Paving the way for last year's State and Conference crowns had been done primarily by graduated seniors, who were both strong and heavily experienced. The advent of this coming season brought with it the realization of long hard hours of practice, devoted to developing techniques. Experience would come with the matches.

Alvin Chandler and Jim Powell, veterans from last year, provided the necessary leadership for the team. Bebe Whitley remained undefeated until he lost a close match in the sectionals. Vic Cochran, Dave Ferris, and Dave Horton donated valuable points. Alvin Chandler, however, was the only Whirlie to achieve state-wide honors by placing second.

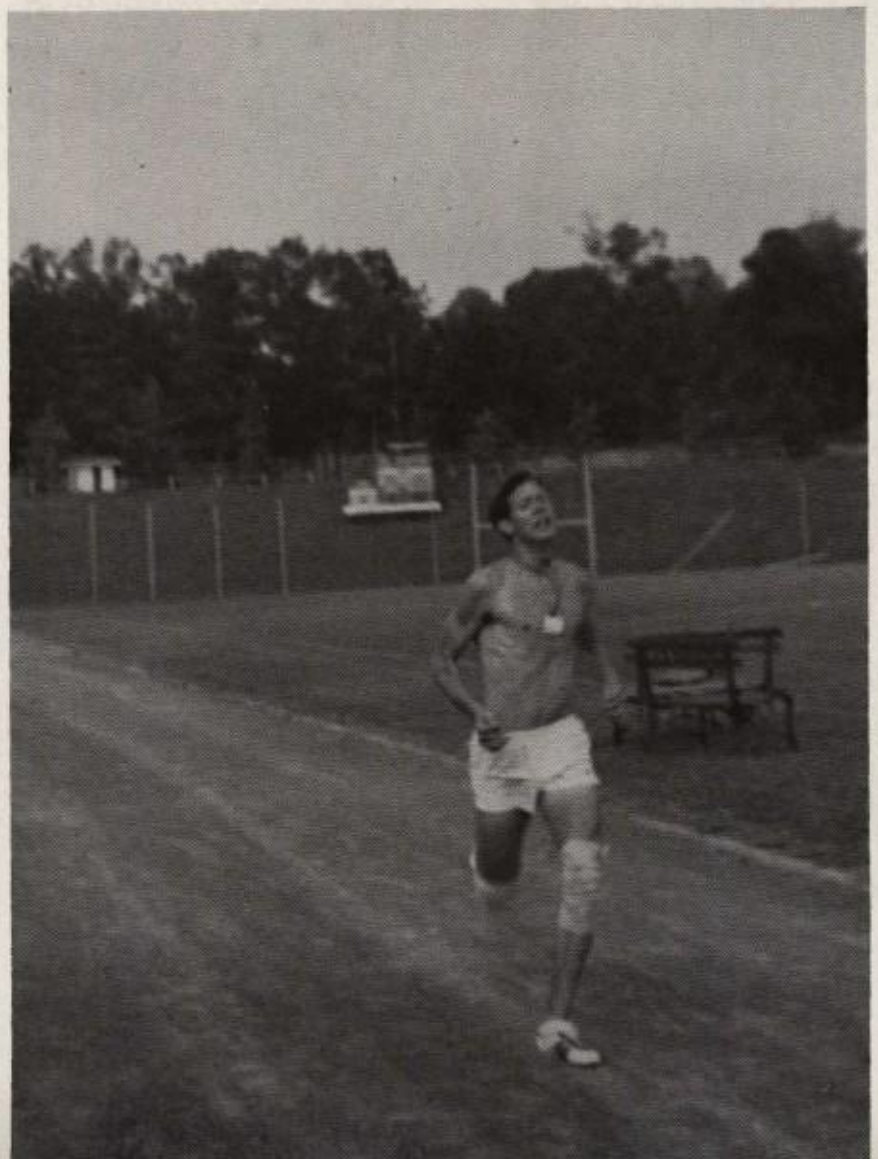
The GHS harriers, coached by Dave Murr, again had a winning season.

Cross Country runners sight-see—the hard way

CROSS COUNTRY'S excruciating demands on a physical system are portrayed clearly in this snapshot of Larry Forrester's practice session.



Cross Country hopes were high and bright at the start of this year's season. Coach Dave Murr's forces (almost the complete team) were returning as experienced lettermen in a most grueling sport. In addition to the previous year's returnees—seven outstanding juniors—was to be a new harrier. Transfer student Larry Forrester stepped into his role as team leader and paced the team most of the way through the year.

The cross country team fielded experience, endurance, and old man injury. Sam Wood, Jack Mason, and Zack Osborne, along with Larry Forrester, led the team to second place in the conference. They battled their way to fourth in the sectionals and finished seventh in the state.

GHS Swimmers repeat heroics as best in state

Grimsley once again produced a highly experienced, efficient swimming team. The Whirlies manhandled all their opponents while coasting to their fifth consecutive Conference Championship. In addition to the conference triumph, the Whirlies added an unsurpassed fourth consecutive State laurel. Grimsley downed North Mecklenburg 47½ to 43 to capture the state meet.

Seniors Bobby Craven, Dale Finn, and Tom Transou consistently led the team. Louis Ford, Jim Walters, and Wayne Eichelberger contributed valuable points as Junior swimmers and will be the team nucleus next year. Sophomore Louis Allen is another swimmer who promises to lead the charge towards another state victory.

Starting off strong, the Whirlies increased in performance ending the year in peak condition. At the initial meet against Smith, the Whirlies had a taste of victory that would not be quenched until the Central 4-A Conference trophy rested in the Grimsley gym.

Ronnie Allen and Ronnie Bolton provided consistent points in the pole vault. Bolton set a new school record in this event. Dan Linker and Jerry Hornig boosted the Whirlie point output in their respective events, the shotput and discus. Additional and final points were added by the 880 and mile relay teams which exemplified the joint effort by the Whirlies.

JOHNNY SPARROW, outstanding senior third baseman, prepares to make the long throw across the infield to first.

Young but reliable players repeatedly turned in excellent performances throughout the season. Rick Pipan, a fine pitcher, threw a three-hitter against Rocky Mount in the playoffs, but to no avail. The Whirlies dropped a 1-0 decision in a close-fought match. Big Keith Broome, in his second year as a starter, outslugged all teammates to lead the offensive. He was followed by senior Ted Lambeth, junior Alan Hutton, and senior John Sparrow. Talent, hard practice, and sheer determination produced this very successful season.

Whirlies field a powerful junior baseball team

The 1967 Whirlie Jayvee baseball team caused several varsity regulars considerable anxiety this spring in the rush for major starting positions.

The Jayvee's year was climaxed strongly in the middle of the season. After winning their first four games commendably (out-scoring opponents 38-7), they shut out the next six opponents and wound up the year with a 11-1 record.

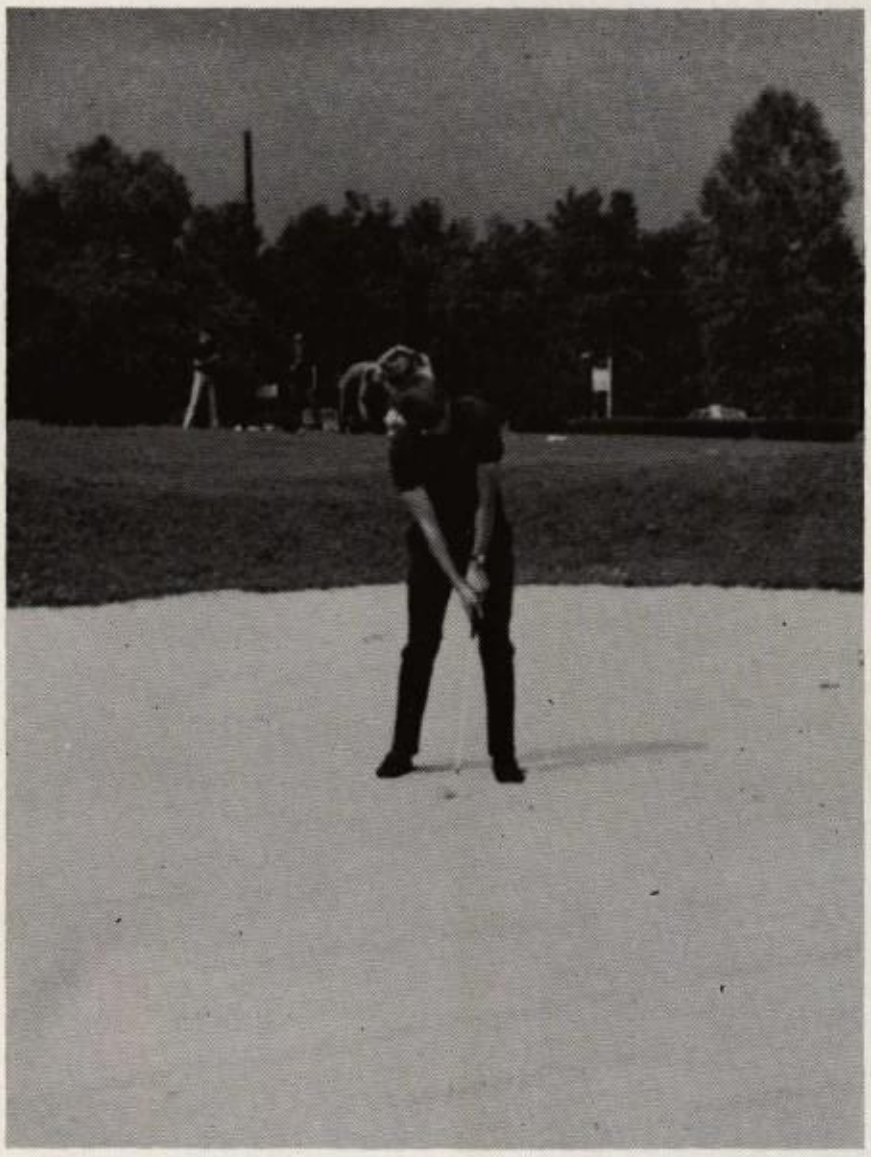
Golfers capture second place in Conference



A SPORT of intense skill and challenging concentration receives even more attention when, to his frustration, a player lands in a sand trap.

This page was almost a blank, or rather incorporated into the write-up of some other sport. Why? Simply because the Whirlies, for a long vital period of time, didn't have a golf course available for their use. Eventually a practice and match site were found. This eliminated the handicap of playing without a golf course, and the Whirlies again started toward a successful season.

The distance hitters of last spring had graduated. It was time for a new Whirlie golf team to emerge. The team was moving with only two Seniors in the top five, it still gave a highly competitive effort. Though not able to hit the "long ball" consistently, they compensated with remarkable accuracy. Leadership of the team was carried by the Seniors Jim Blackwood and Jeff Inman. However, the underclassmen contributed to the final standing 2nd in the conference and 3rd in the sectional.

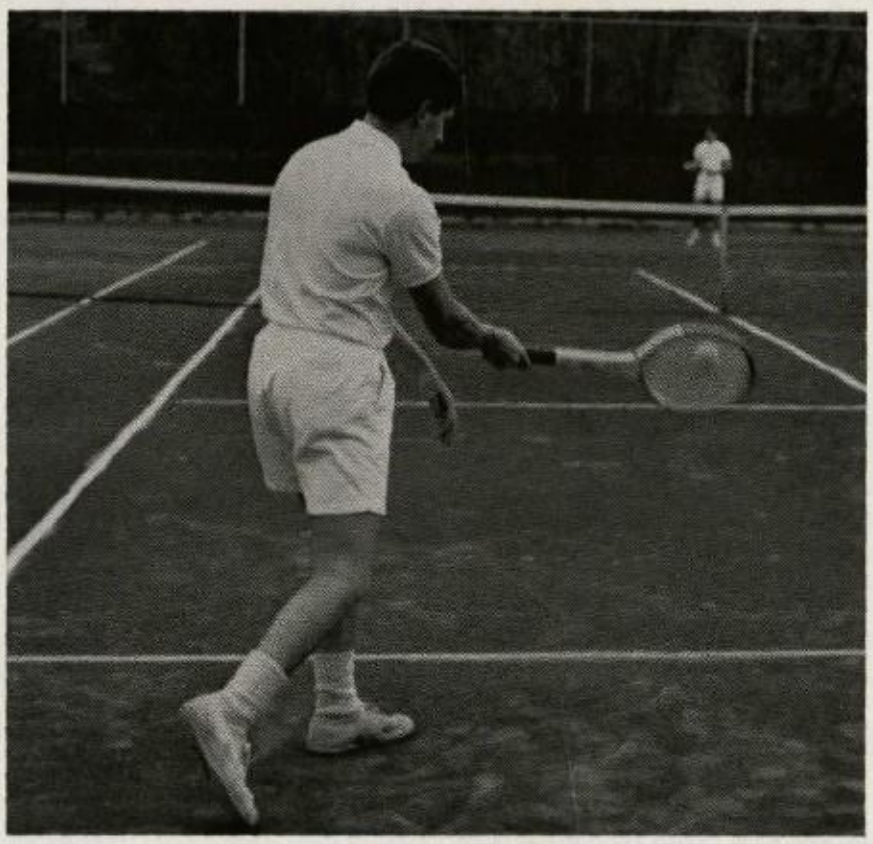
Tennis Team secures fifth place in Conference

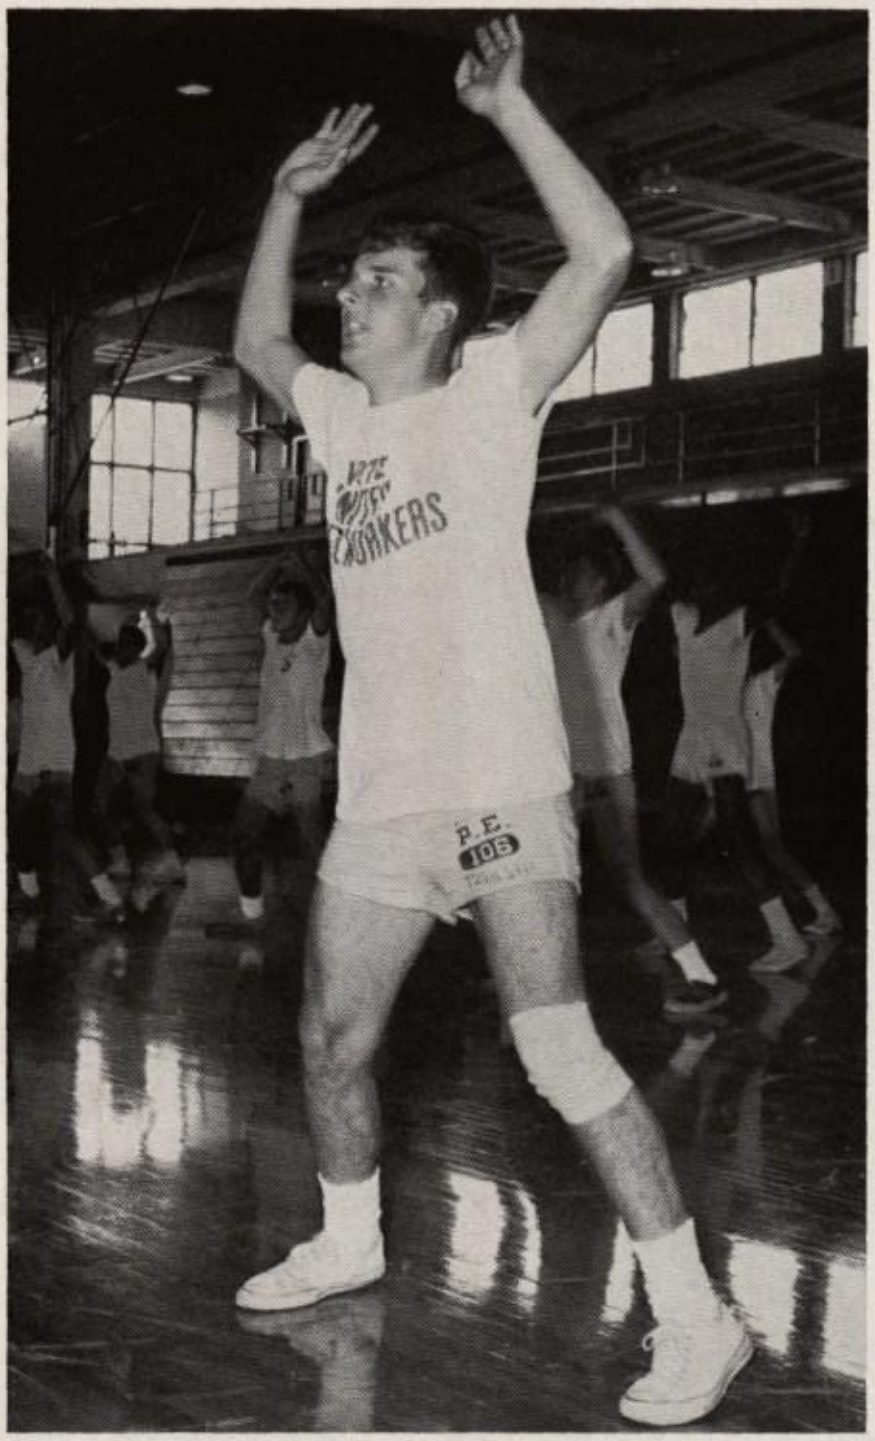
April deluges and spring fever accompanied the beginning of practice for the courageous Whirlie tennis team. Rackets had to be dusted and new shoes broken in. Serve followed serve and these led to games; games to sets; sets to matches and suddenly the season ended with the Whirlies tied for fifth in the conference.

This was the last year for Seniors Bob Freedman and Gene and Joe Fuller, three of the top players. Scott Snavely and Stan West, promising Juniors, gained another year of seasoning and a long wait until next year's matches.



PROPER FORM developed by hard practice is essential to winning tennis. Bob Freedman, senior, works on his forehand at a practice match.

Increased physical education enrollment brings



EVERY GYM class begins with limbering-up calisthenics.

Physical Education was at an organizational peak during the 1967-68 school year. Coaches Murr, Robison, and Sawyer were in charge of over one-fourth of our student body. In September the instructors had to invent a method to control, somehow, the impulsive hoard. Thus evolved the rotating system of coaching. Each coach concentrated on a certain sport with a group of boys; soon these changed to another coach and another sport. Coach Robison handled wrestling; Coach Murr, basketball; Coach Sawyer, track; but the old standbys, softball and tag football were directed by all.

HURDLES, raised to a maximum 39 inches, tax every boy's strength and agility.

ON WARM fall days the "Skins" and the "Shirts" enjoy the competition of tag football.

revised organization and a change in methods

Eclipsing the two required years of girls' physical education can be done by participating in a mandatory course which offers a variety of sports. Here, as in boys' physical education, the number of girls created a revolution in the management and efficient coaching of so many pupils. The staff endeavors to incorporate a program of varied skills and sports to appeal to the diverse interests of the girls.

In the fall the girls took to the fields and to the gym. Speedball, volleyball, and tennis constituted the fall agenda of sports. Each group of girls received instruction in the three sports. Hardy participants later learned a traditional boys' sport, tag football. Indoor games such as darts, ping pong, and basketball became prevalent as the weather grew intolerant of outdoor activities. Then springtime saw a very invigorating year rounded out with track and archery.

Tall, talented female cagers rout opposing teams

COACH Addison reviews game strategy with her team during half-time.

While the principal focus of winter athletics was devoted to basketball in the boys' gym, the basketball team next door posted a very commendable record. The girls' varsity team won seven out of their nine games in a "going away" fashion. It wasn't unusual for several scores to come from beyond the 15-foot marks, as the hotshooting Whirlies bombarded opponents unmercifully.

Seniors Marie Simmons, Gail Knieriem, and Carol Benbow were the upperclassmen who led the squad. Junior guards Karen Spivey and Jane Fulton, and sophomore Cathy Pemberton were the underclassmen who provided much of the scoring punch.

The Whirlies won all of their games by lopsided scores except for two lone defeats at the hands of High Point.

GAA members officiate at jr. high and club games

Participation in athletic events is not confined solely to male athletes at GHS. Girls who enjoy expending energy and emotion, with a sense of accomplishment, may engage in the girls' athletic program. Grimsley Girls' Athletic Association gives athletically inclined girls opportunity to display their sportive knowledge and agility.

These girls were called upon this year to exhibit their talents and teamwork in competition with various rival schools. In addition to their own performance, the girls were also asked to referee at various playdays for junior high teams and at club games.

The GAA also carried through a long-standing money-making project. GHS sweatshirts were once again marketed as a means of income for this organization.

Cheerleaders lift spirit of players and spectators

In late spring of last year, over 100 enthusiastic, shouting girls began to spend afternoons at the boy's gym. Scattered over the lawn in shorts and gym suits, and supervised by the incumbent cheerleaders, they began preliminary practice. Two weeks later, tryouts for the coveted positions began.

From the hopeful crowd emerged eleven tearfully ecstatic girls — the 1967-68 cheerleaders. The bounce and gaiety expressed by the "Pep Girls" was perpetually reflected wherever they went. At pep rallies and at games, they invariably bolstered Whirlie spirit when hopes began to sag.

Whirling Boots enhance Grimsley sports scene

Adding color and zip to any halftime show can often result in headaches — big headaches. Grimsley has had the perfect solution for any pepless intermission. The Whirling Boots, Grimsley's own performing dance team, whisked away the fifteen-minute lull in a highly regulated style. The boot corps, whose members devoted several hours a week to vigorous practice sessions, captured the admiration of all observers. Under supervision they achieved uniform rhythm and perfectly timed precision.

The Boots performed at virtually every home football game. Music for these performances was provided by the Grimsley Marching Band. When the girls moved indoors for the basketball season, accompaniment came with the aid of a tape recorder. When the Boots danced to jazz by contemporary artist Herb Alpert, ponchos were the costume order for the day.

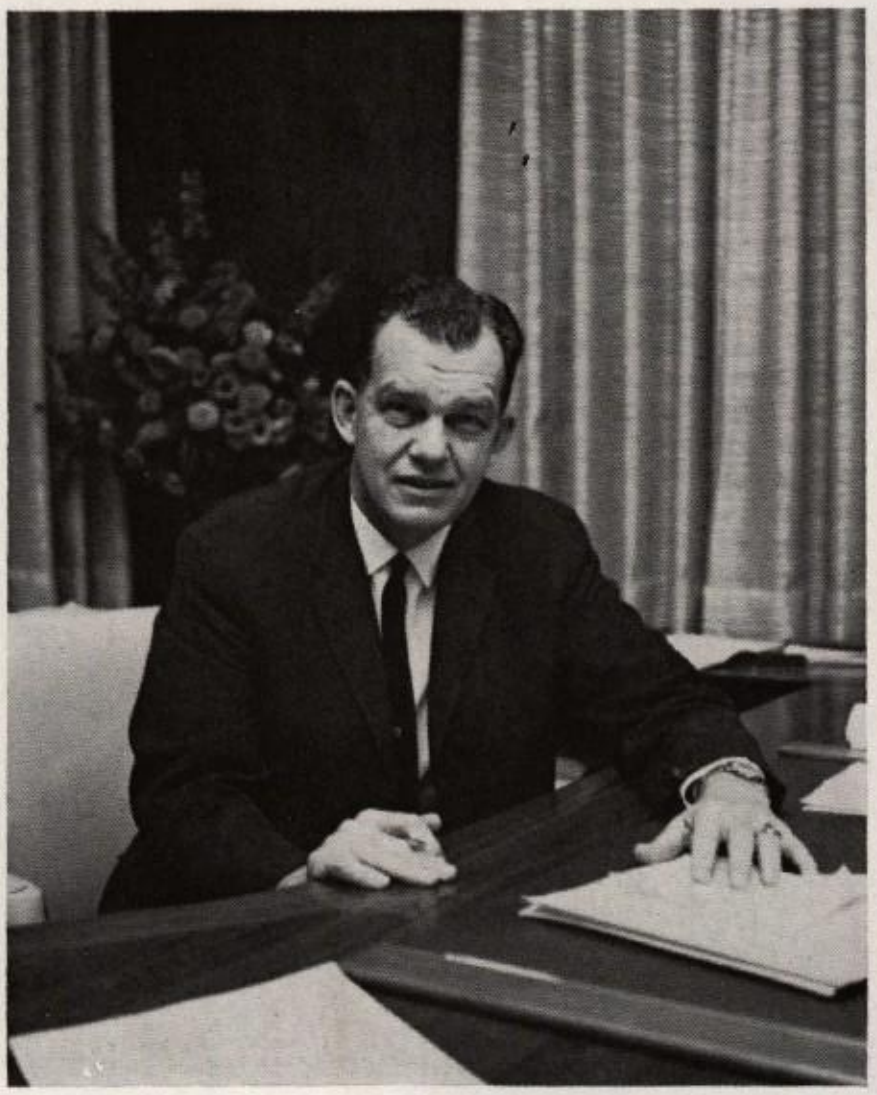
BOARD OF ADMINISTRATION of the Greensboro Public Schools—Seated: Mr. A. S. Lineberry, Mr. E. F. Lucas Jr., Mrs. Margaret A. Harris, Mr. Richard K. Hunter, chairman; Mr. George E. Norman Jr., vice chairman; and Mr. Richard M. Wilson. Standing: Mr. Kenneth R. Newbold, Dr. W. J. House, Mr. Philip J. Weaver, Superintendent; Mr. R. Thorpe Jones, and Mr. Robert Moseley, school attorney. This board's main purpose is to improve Greensboro's schools.

School Board completes library and paints GHS

Philip J. Weaver, Superintendent, checks over plans for 1968 school year.



On their 1967-68 agenda the Greensboro Board of Education had many projects for the city schools. Two libraries, three athletic buildings, two new junior high schools, and three elementary schools were major projects. But many other needs received the board's attention. Campuses of new schools had to be landscaped; needs in textbooks and buses had to be met; the "Headstart" program must be supported. Also, anticipating school deficiencies in a growing Greensboro next year and the next demanded constructive attention.

For Grimsley the new library with its attractive carpet and furnishings, and its greater space brought increased library service and convenience. The old library space had to be remodeled into five classrooms. Moreover every GHS classroom and corridor received a new coat of paint. In spite of the inconveniences and the smell of paint, the fresh look gave students and teachers alike a "lift of spirit."

PTSA gives Mr. Routh NEA life membership

This year the Grimsley Parent-Teacher-Student Association's drives for membership and contributions to support many GHS services and projects passed the goals already set. Funds for refreshments at an October 2 reception for teachers and for all student dances; for contributions to Whirligig, the school library, and School Beautiful; and for many other important projects came out of the PTSA treasury. An especially pleasing gift was one to Mr. Routh—life membership in National Education Association.

PTSA meetings numbered only four—two of which were planned for parents to follow daily schedules of their sons or daughters in meeting classes, teachers, and the hardships of changing class in five short minutes. At the final program of the year, guidance counselors enlightened parents about college requirements.

PTSA OFFICERS are Treasurer J. E. Barney, Secretary Mrs. C. S. Wilkins Jr., Vice President Mrs. A. S. Lineberry, and President J. C. Nantz.

In demanding role, Principal Routh shows wisdom

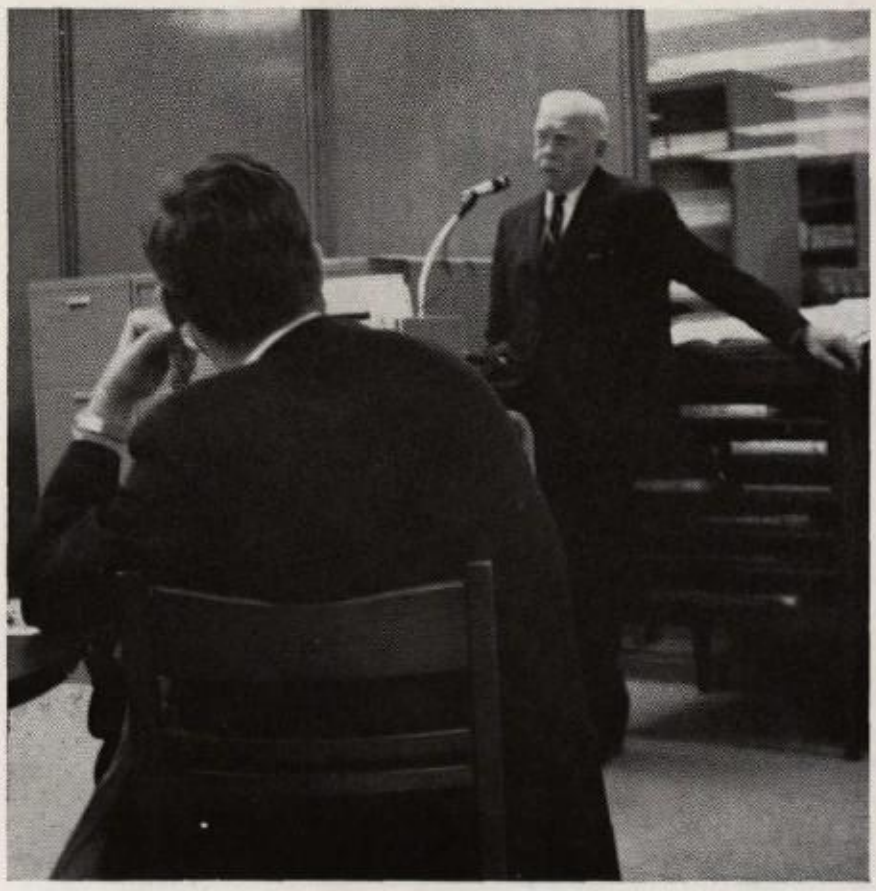
Grimsley High School—with its nine buildings, sprawling campus, teeming classrooms and corridors—demands constant and expert attention and wise supervision. The task of fulfilling these responsibilities has been held for thirty-five years by Principal A. P. Routh. Because he is a master organizer, he is able to cope with major catastrophes, minor emergencies, and a myriad routine problems of everyday school life. Whether it is an irate or worried parent, three teachers absent on the same day, or a game, contest, and meeting to be attended simultaneously, Mr. Routh finds the time, the patience, and the thoughtful consideration to handle each crisis satisfactorily.

Attending to the intricate business of running a large school and guiding its ninety-five teachers and nearly two thousand students would be a challenge to anyone—but to Mr. Routh, principal "par excellence," this is a way of life.

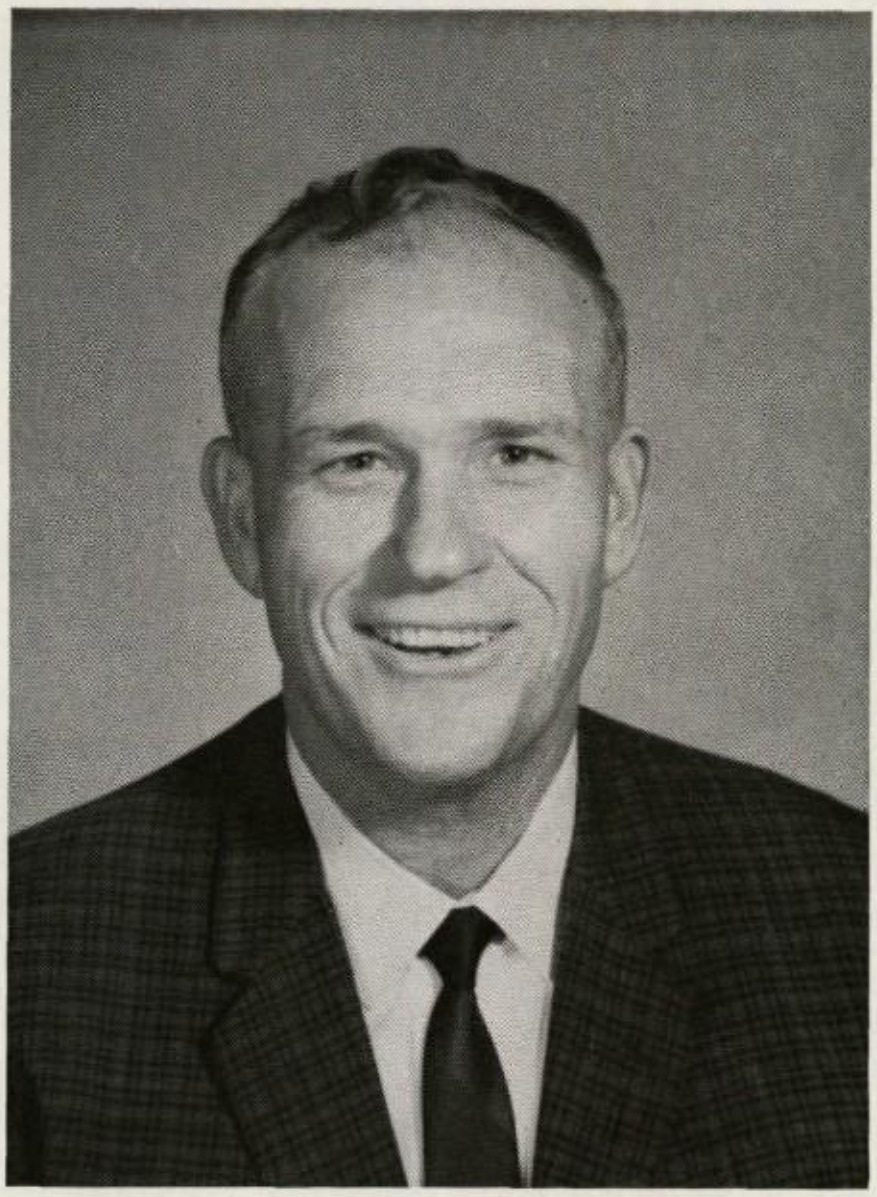
AT FACULTY meeting in new library, Mr. Routh clarifies exam week schedule.



Assistant and indispensable ally to Mr. Routh is the ever-smiling Mr. Lody Glenn. He seems to be everywhere—patrolling the halls, organizing boys to drive buses, selling tickets to sports events, making change in the cafeteria. Mr. Glenn laughs at our antics, is disappointed at our failures, understands our mistakes, and sympathizes with us in our defeats.

Always popular with the students, his greeting in the hall is a bright spot in every student's day. And not a teacher fails to respond with a smile to his warm "Hi, Buddy!"

Across the hall from Mr. Glenn's busy office is the newly furnished Dean's office and Clinic. Directed by Mrs. Daphne Stanton, Dean of Students, the Dean's office handles tardy slips, attendance records, and early dismissals. The clinic provides a temporary place for ill students. Assisted by Miss Parker, Mr. Ballance, and student volunteers, the Dean's office performs a vital function smoothly and efficiently.



ASSISTANT Principal R. L. Glenn is a genial friend to students and faculty alike.

THE doors of Grimsley High School opened wide. We hundreds of eager, unassuming students flooded the halls, embarking on our high school career—a new world.

To become valuable members of this student body, we would have to change many previous ideas and accustomed ways. At first we were overwhelmed by large crowds and endless corridors, the different curriculum, new teachers—each one aiming to develop our skills and increase our knowledge. We were faced with many problems. Where is the right room? Take the escalator to the third floor of the Science Building. Whoops, wrong rest room! Pop test today. Which girl to take to the pep rally? . . .

We saw the challenge. We saw ourselves mature into young adults. And with maturity comes responsibility; we knew that we would really have to buckle down.

As the days passed, we found that we, with little difficulty, had become active members of the student body. We became members of clubs, tried out for the football and basketball teams, took the long-awaited course in drivers' education. We even acquired the ol' whirlie spirit. The overwhelming mass of vague faces had become familiar classmates and dear friends.

At years' end we look back on the tearful, joyful, disappointing, wonderful experiences which made 1967-68 at Grimsley High School a special year to remember.

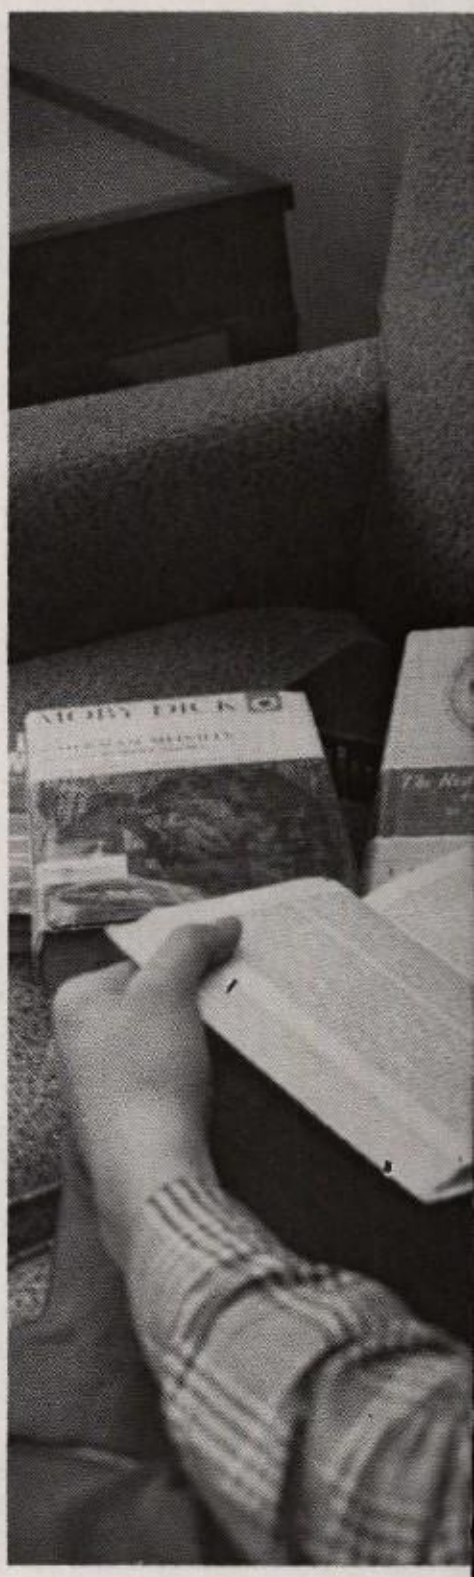
MISS CAUSEY puts final touches on makeup of one of the actors she is directing in the Junior Class Play.

RARE solemn moment in You Can't Take It with You comes when Grandpa Vanderhoff leads the family in a blessing.



MARSHALS, in their distinctive dress and blue-and-white sashes, find their duties pleasant.

FFICERS of the Junior Class
e President Tye Hunter,
m Walters, Marie Busch, and uis Ford. Class Advisor is iss Amy Moore.

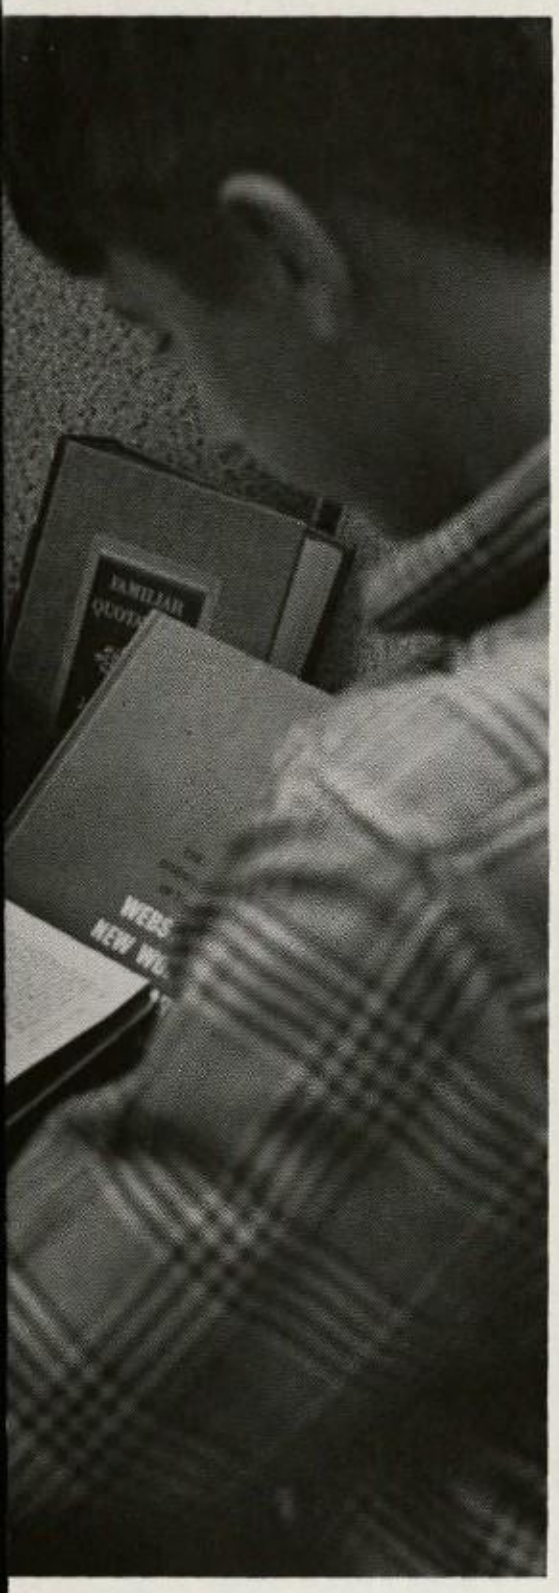
SURROUNDED by characteristic books, this Junior engages in the not-too-popular "sport" of studying.



As Juniors we have reached the midpoint in our high school career. We are yesterday's struggling sophomores and tomorrow's sophisticated seniors. Ours is an experimental time. We move in many directions as we seek a better understanding of ourselves, our values, and our goals. Our new class rings symbolize the many facets of our personalities.

We are producers in charge of the Thanksgiving assembly and the Senior prom. We are actors and actresses presenting You Can't Take It with You. We have harpooned Moby Dick and earned our own red badges of courage. We are tomorrow's writers, creating imaginative short stories, and tomorrow's philosophers, analyzing Hester Prynne.

We are Junior Marshals, tiptoeing into the hushed auditorium. We are junior mathematicians and translators, scientists and apprentices, discovering our own futures. We are historians, challenging the past and anticipating our tomorrows. Too, we are energetic cheerleaders and teammates and spectators, participating and giving of ourselves.

We have sampled many roles; we are many reflections and many promises. We look to the future with mingled feelings of anxiety and of confidence for what is to be.

Juniors sample many diverse roles

LONG AWAITED, treasured class ring symbolizes for Juniors the spirit and significance of GHS.

Forty Juniors share honor of being a Marshal

CHIEF MARSHAL Gordon confers with Advisor Mrs. Sigmon about the duties of the forty marshals.

As we filed into Grimsley's main building for an evening concert or play, we never ceased to be amazed at the transformation from the daytime school we were so familiar with. At entrances to the auditorium each of us was greeted by a well-dressed student who took our ticket, extended us a program, and inquired politely, "May I help you find a seat?"

This student was one of forty who shared the honor and distinction of having been chosen from their homerooms to serve as Marshals. From the first concert in the fall, through all other productions, the Marshals performed their duties efficiently and functioned as a gracious welcoming committee for Grimsley. Highlighting their activities, they ushered proud parents and anxious seniors into the solemn Graduation exercises.

Both anxious and confident, Juniors look ahead

SIGNIFICANT doorways Juniors anticipate next year include for some that fateful English room 407!

WITH ITS MESSAGE of universal import, The Other Wise Man invokes a sense of reverent majesty.

OFFICERS of the Senior Class—Seated: Secretary Carruthers; Treasurer Israel. Standing: President Powell; Vice President Deal.

SALIENT among our memories as seniors is the reading of Chaucer's Canterbury Tales and Shakespeare's Classics.

"I must have passed the crest a while ago
And now I am going down—
Strange to have crossed the crest and not to know . . ."

Sara Teasdale

WHEN was it—the exact moment when we, the Senior Class, assumed our position of leadership at Grimsley?

We arrived at Grimsley as timid, cautious sophomores in 1965. Even after selling pencils, our first function as a class, we were unable to foresee that in three years we would be the leaders of the student body.

As juniors we showed our first real signs of potential in the presentation of The Whole Truth. We worked together through the Thanksgiving pageant, our short stories, and the almost inevitable PSAT's. Then suddenly it was Spring, and we elected our officers—the students who would lead not only our class but also the whole student body. For some, we became leaders at that moment.

For other students, though, the reality of our position, with its prestige, freedom, power, and responsibilities, did not become obvious until we returned to school in the fall as seniors—the most influential class at Grimsley.

"How strange to cross the crest..."

Many of our other talents were seen in productions such as a lavish May Day, an inspirational Christmas Pageant, The Other Wise Man, and Class Day.

Very quickly it was time for final exams and frantic cramming. Was it with relief or regret that some of us realized how little time was left for us to lead Grimsley?

Graduation came, and as we sat solemnly in our caps and gowns, there were the inevitable thoughts of going back, of hiding from the uncertainity and grueling hard work of the future. But we knew, even as we regretted leaving our position of power, that we would be the ones who would once again be in power some day in the not too distant future.

FACING IMMINENT separation, one comes to realize the preciousness of each moment shared with another.

IN OUR LAST FUNCTION as a class, we present a striking uniformity before going our separate ways.

annual fall Homecoming and spring May courts

A procrastinating white rabbit, a whimsical cheshire cat, and a lovable dormouse carried young and old to a land bounded only by the imagination as the ageless tale of Alice in Wonderland was recreated at the 1967 May Day. Enchanting dancers and actors entertained Queen Lynn Marshall and her court composed of ten senior girls, four juniors, and three sophomores selected by their respective classes on the basis of beauty.

Another criterion, school spirit, served as the measuring stick by which another group was selected—the Homecoming court. Each senior member of the football squad sponsored a spirited senior girl, and the student body then elected Barbara Israel as its 1967 Homecoming Queen.

PREPARATIONS for a lavish May Day include regular dance practices for court members and their escorts.

P. O. Box 592 Telephone 274-1571

I have become able to read my school assignments in approximately 1/20 of the time with better comprehension. I intend to use Reading Dynamics techniques to fulfill my desire of reading many good books which I would not have attempted before.

RANDY MIMS

Now I can read and it's really fun! Unbelievably great! One would have to take the course to believe what it can do for you.

MARK BUIE

It's a real help to have learned how to read fast. Now, I don't have to spend half the night sweating over reading or homework assignments.

BILL PROCTOR

This course has helped me tremendously in my schoolwork. I can read my assignments in 1/3 the time with good comprehension. I plan to use this in college. I hope it will save me hours of laborious reading.

LARRY ALLEN

I have learned to read about six times as fast with 40% better comprehension than when I started the course. I didn't believe it could be done before I started the course. It will be a great asset in the future for my college career and beyond. I feel it has been the biggest step I have taken in planning for the future.
